Nodem Digital Curating on Interpretation,
Learning and Collaboration

Caroline Claisse
Royal College of Art

The Exquisite Cabinet

—

an experimental installation to encourage creative thinking and sharing stories

>2014 RCA Degree Show, Royal College of Art

>Surrealist Object

>Man Ray Cadeau (1921)

>Surrealist Object

"The mundane, mostly mass-produced objects found new resonances when arranged in unprecedented and provocative configurations (...)

To aid the systematic derangement of all the senses....it is my opinion that we must not hesitate to bewilder sensation..."

>Man Ray Cadeau (1921)

> Via MoMA Learning website

>The Wheelbarrow Chair (2012)

>Caroline Claisse

>Handling Collection

>Horniman Museum (London)

>Handling Collection

>Horniman Museum (London)

>The Object Dialogue Box

>Millennium Gallery (Sheffield)

>Session observation

> The Object Dialogue Box

> Turner Contemporary (Margate)

> Session observation

>The Object Dialogue Box

>Turner Contemporary (Margate)

>Session observation

"(...) When people have got something delicate in their hands, body language changes and spoken language changes. Delicate objects seem to bring about delicate discussion."

> Karl Foster from Hedsor

> Video via Vimeo

> http://vimeo.com/99126680

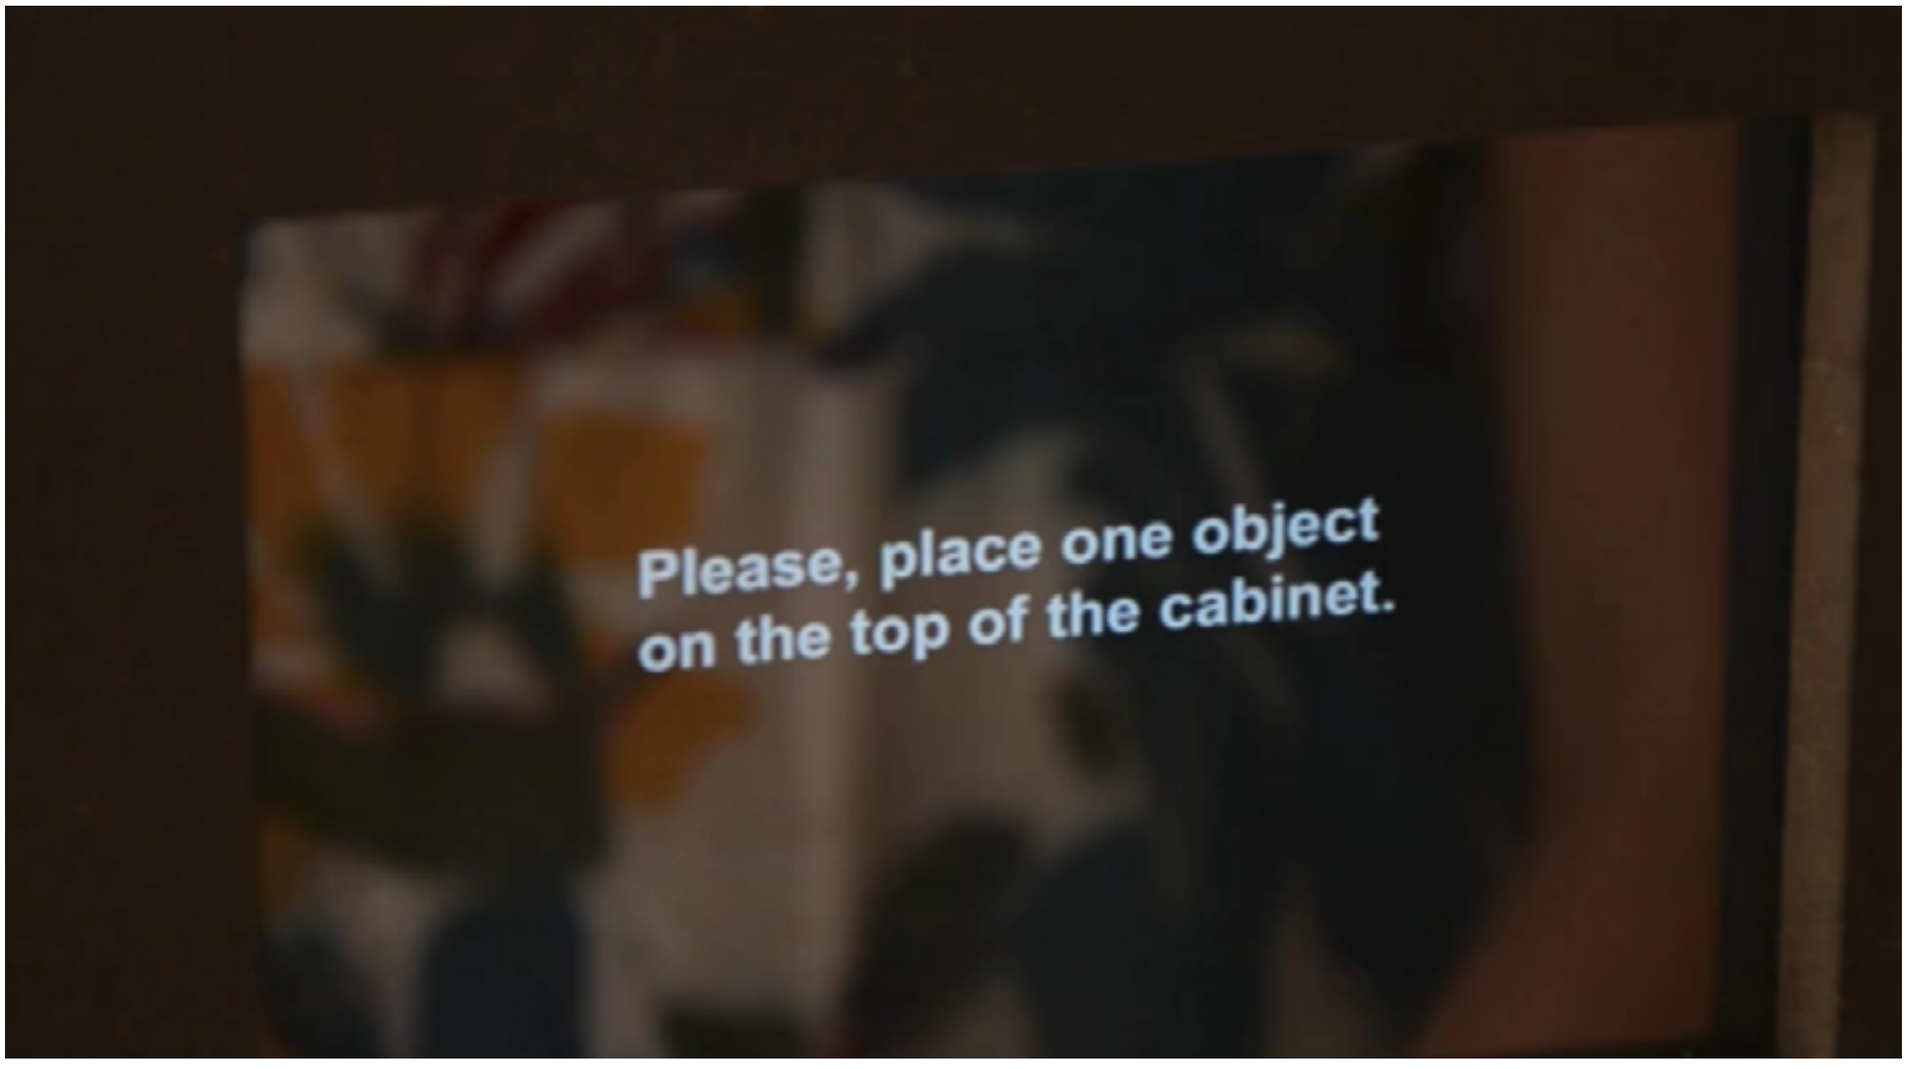

> Video via Vimeo

> http://vimeo.com/99126680

> Video via Vimeo

> http://vimeo.com/99126680

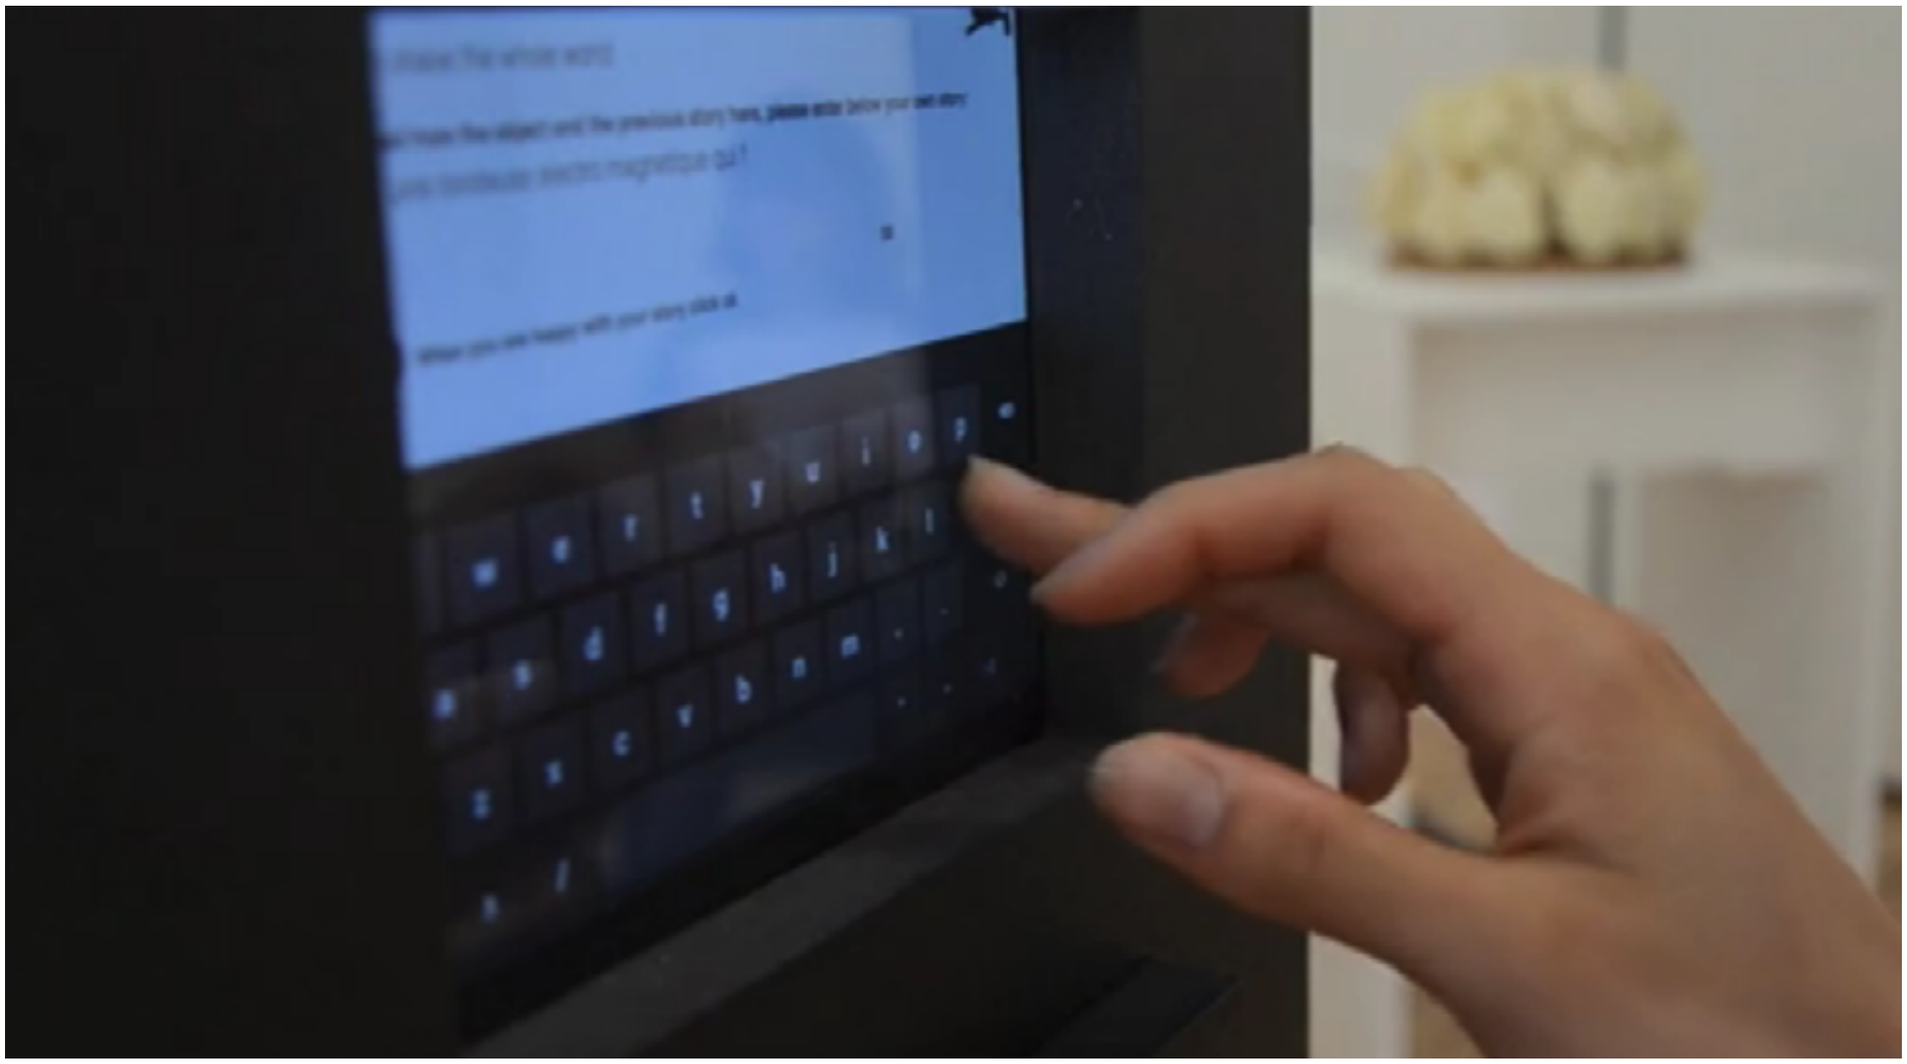

> Video via Vimeo

> http://vimeo.com/99126680

> Video via Vimeo

> http://vimeo.com/99126680

> The Exquisite Corpse

> Yves Tanguy, Joan Miró, Max Morise, Man Ray ect. (1927)

> Via MoMA Learning website

>Back of the cabinet

>Embedding and reading stories

> Stories collected (physical archive)

> Stories collected (digital archive)

> exquisitecabinet.co.uk

The Exquisite Cabinet

It houses intruiguing objects in which users can embed a snippet of a story, carrying on a narrative chain. The system is inspired from the Surrealist game Exquisite Corpse, and uses RFID technology.

Watch The Video

By Caroline Claisse

Site by Oliver Smith

The cup looks strange because there is a handcuff stuck on the side which must have belong to a prisoner he has big hands so that's why he needed a large handle because one of his hands has sevenfingers.

Hello this works this cup is weird. A hand cuffed cup was trying to escape the cupboard, and broke it's leg which does not have one.

He stayed home immobile sat all day drinking tea like a prisoner until he stumbles across the evil

The captain shaved the sea surface. Shaving the surface was not enough - he soon realised he needed reach far underneath the water in every little corner of the flat land the slime slipped south.

Suicide is painless but what if there are seven hells? there's no earthly way of knowing just exactly where we're going... is that you always know where you came from because it always points in the wrong direction. but it guides you to a more mysterious path tree that lays in the deep forest which is from a

Medusa is wearing mask in the ball, searching for Perseus. Perseus was standing alone but when she looked more closely she could see he was talking to himself and smiling a lot to ladies. He was a gentleman and so mask of death

The great actor had left behind no trace of his existence save for his very first mask How are you. I'm good but I cannot see much. Where are my glasses. Perhaps they are lost because my head has turned upside down. The sky is below and the ground is up

The dog floats to the sea and disappeared he eventually came back a few weeks later floating in his little and weird looking ship.

Sat a strange little dog in a cup inflated by a ball of air looking out from its cup home, he searches for a faithful friend. It's sad to bury your dog and say it's a monk. a monk who rested in peace.

The dog peeped out of the champagne flute like he was peeping out of a car window. Quiet and content sleepy yet expectant inside a safe place, isolated from the

> The four exquisite objects

> From physical, to digital to physical

> 3D scanned, 3D printed

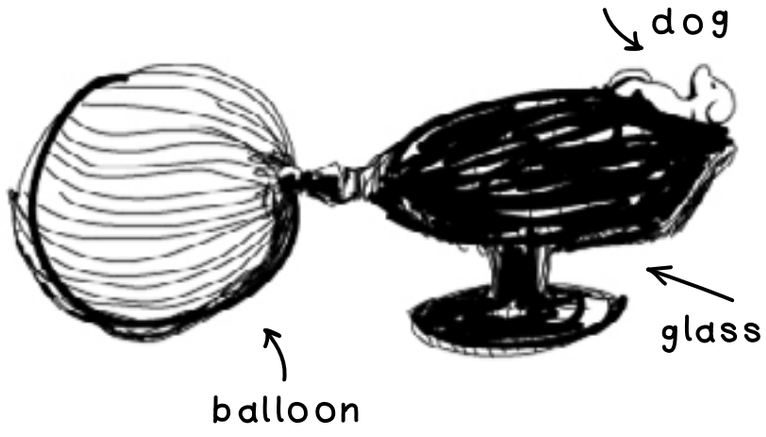

> Object collected

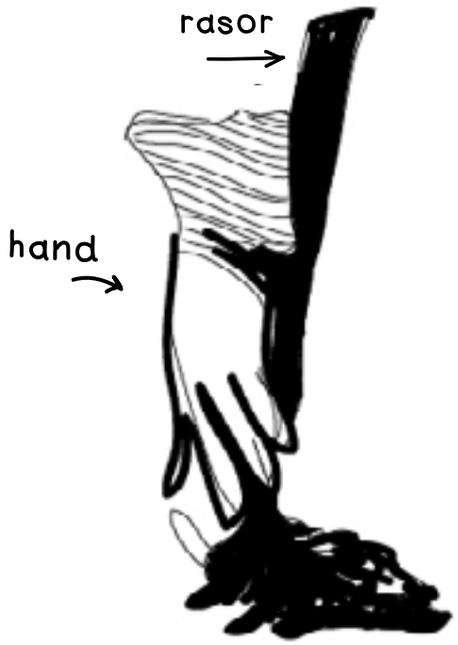

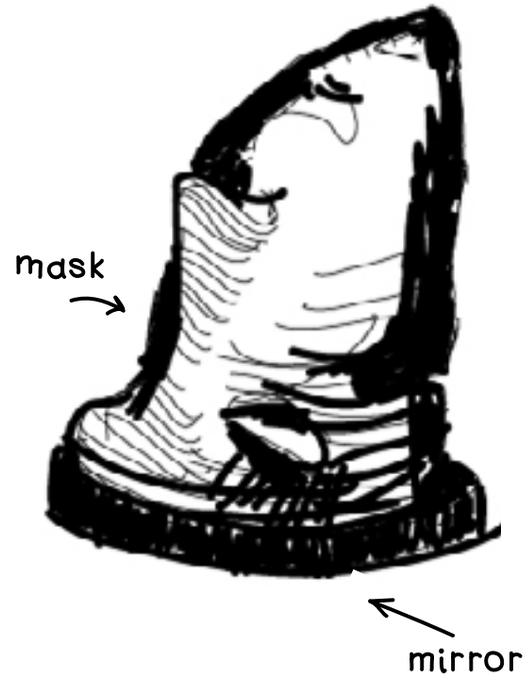

> Object making

>The four exquisite objects

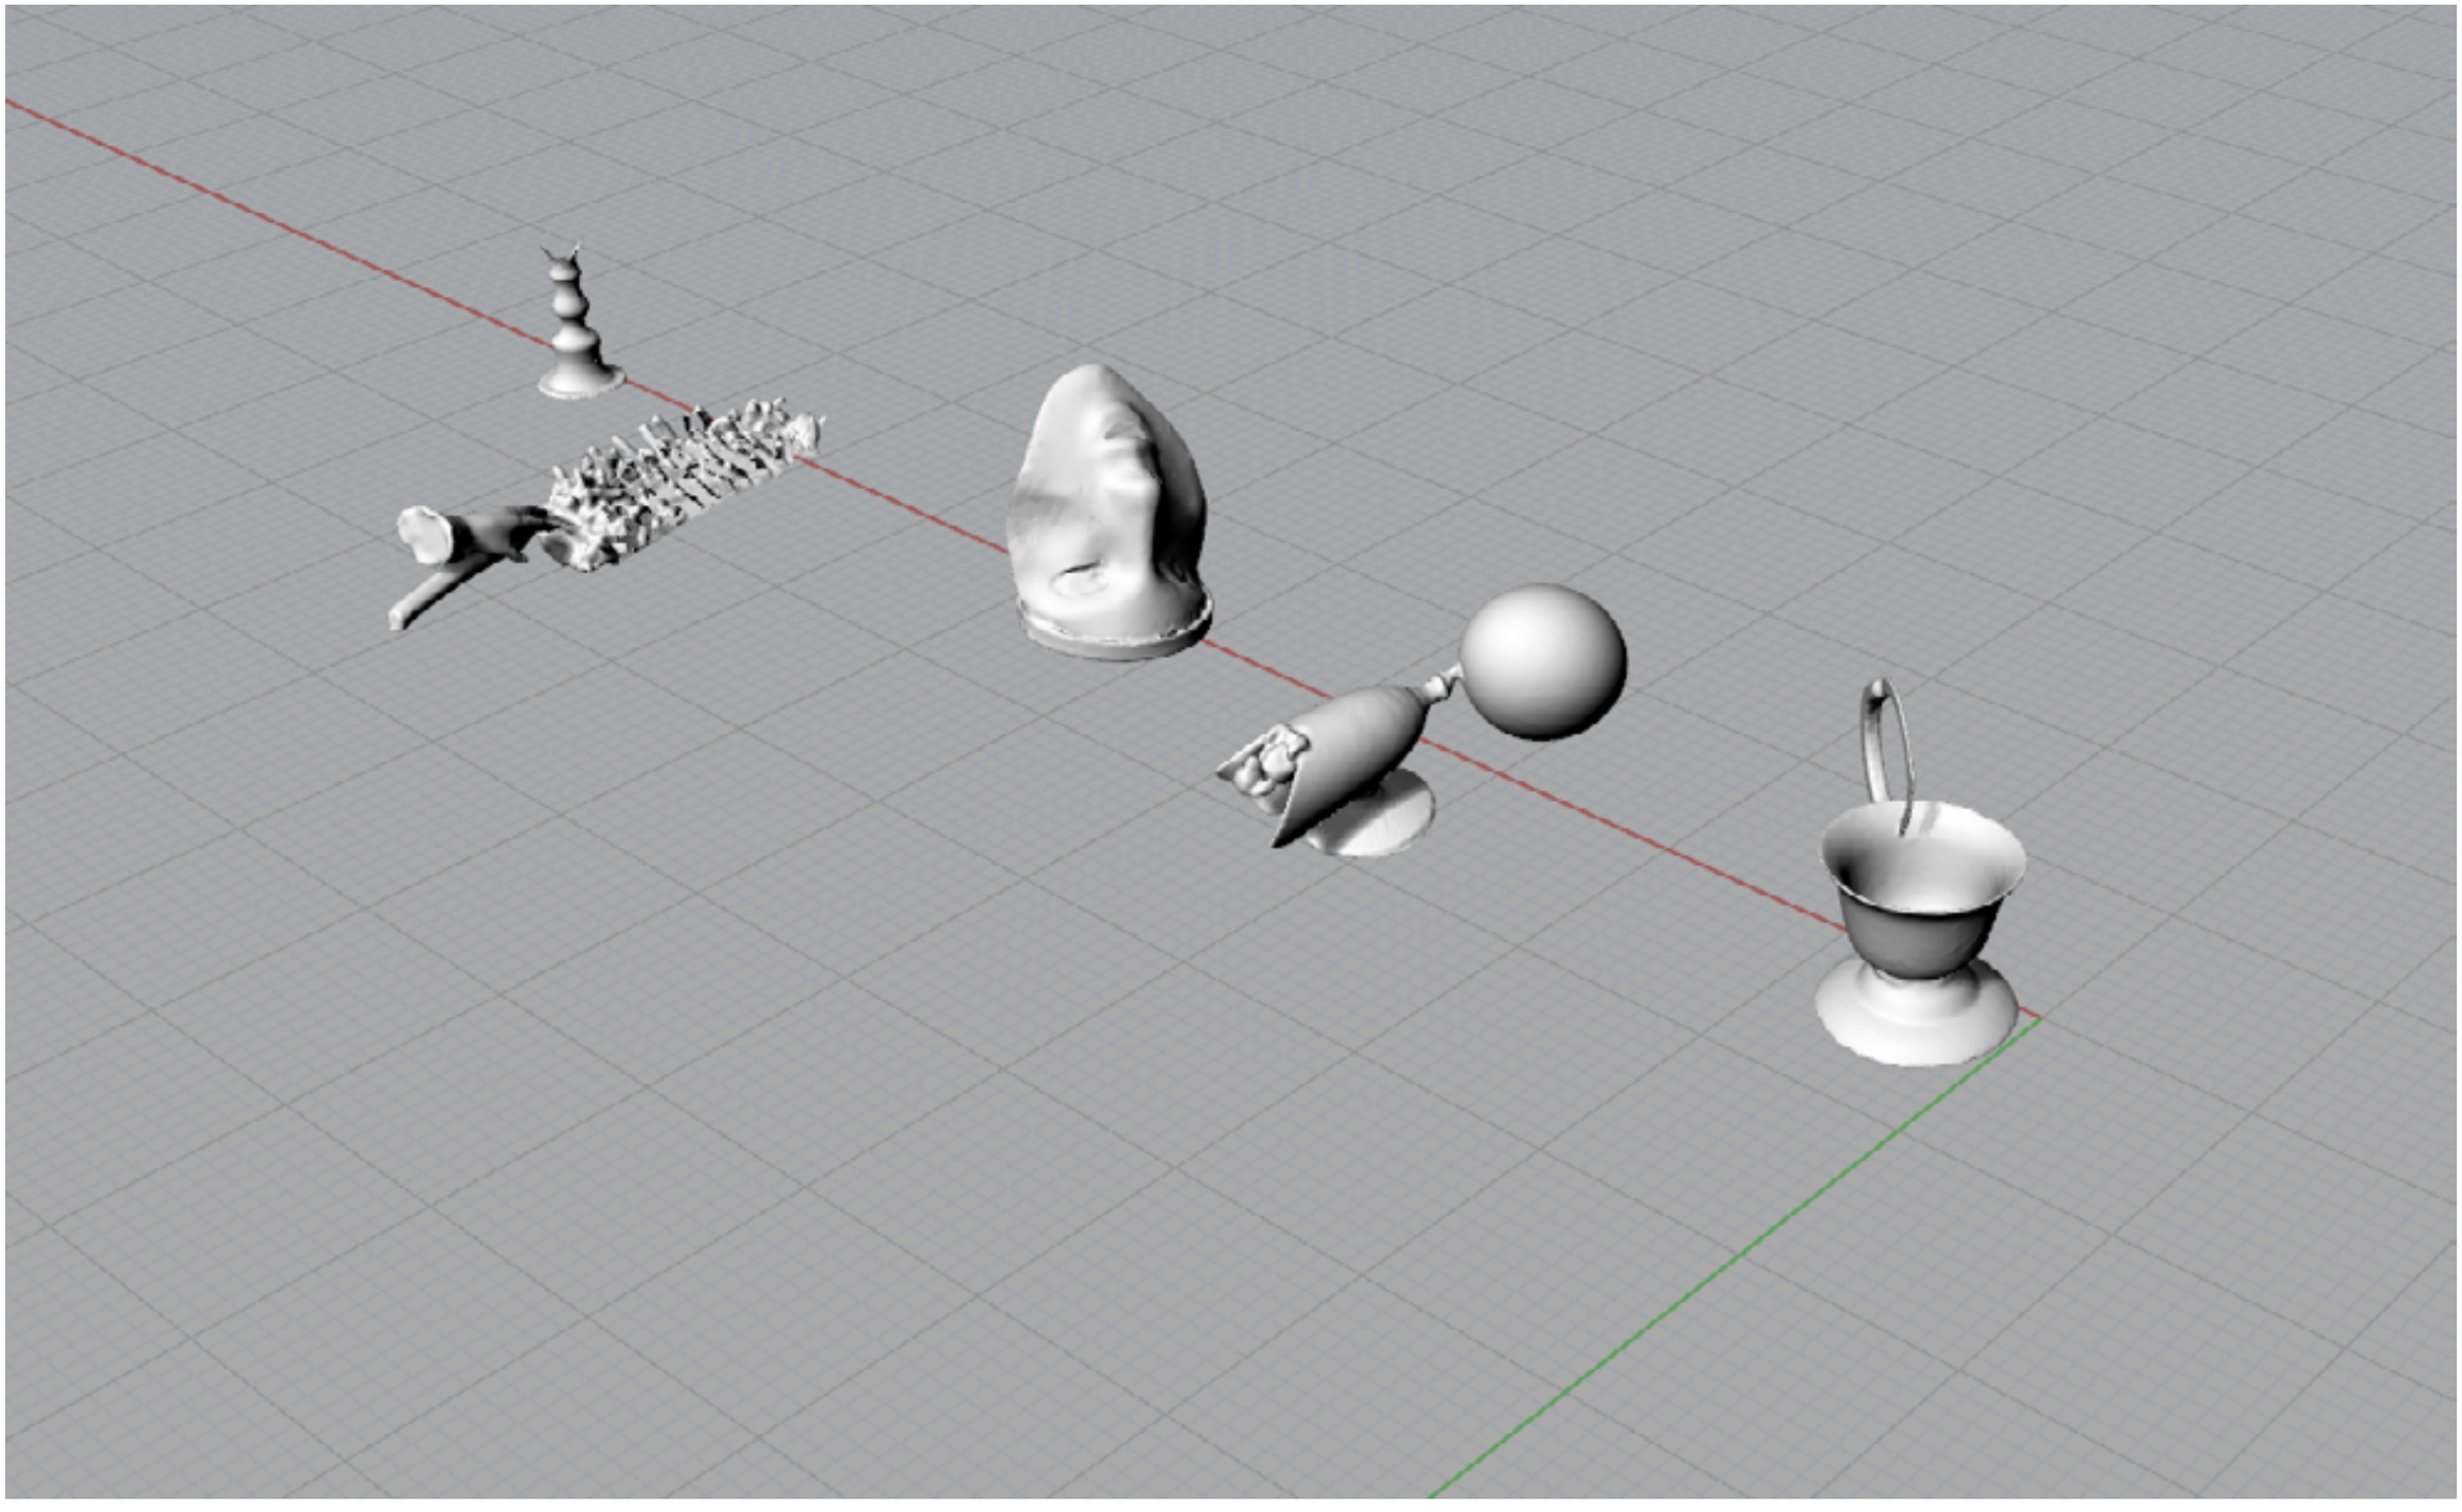

> The four exquisite objects

>Cup/handcuff object

>Narratives merging

... The cup must have belong to a prisoner,

he needed a large handle because one of his hands has seven fingers

... What I fear is the cage.. so narrow I could not breath

... He stayed home immobile sat all day drinking tea

... Alcoholic prisoners

... We had a cup of tea in the jail

>Cup/handcuff object

... Intringuing object. Is it an Alladin lamp?

I was flying away with jafar:-) when I suddenly saw Dark Vador with a cup of wine

... The genie has gone home but she or he has left a beautiful objet for me to admire:-)

>Rasor/hand object

>Exquisite corpse (extract)

1 The captain shaved the sea surface.

2 Shaving the surface was not enough - he soon

3 realised he needed reach far underneath the water in every little corner of the flat land

4 the slime slipped south.

>Dog/balloon/glass object

>Familiar/unfamilar

... A dog was once sitting in a champagne glass

when the bottom of the glass suddenly turned into a pea.

>Cup/handcuff object

>Technology: impact on the story

... I am a clone with no history so sad

... drinking from the printed cup
... A three dimensionally printed digital remix
of a cup and a handcuff

>Cup/handcuff object

>Breaks: impact on the story

... broken broke technology

I smashed the teacup

aha verrai incatenato all'acqua che ho reccolto fgh dgbb.

I didn't understand what he said.

(...) I panicked, I drop the cup.

she tried to save the tea from spilling ettttttddwsdfuhhbvbhufdutfyufuffgyghgfuguufkfufj-chgghusaaseprdquikjhgfdfggghhhhjjjjik koopwwwww wwww i broke a cup.

Dishwasher abuser

>2014 RCA Degree Show, Royal College of Art

>The Exquisite Cabinet

>Noise Festival

"This seems to be where surrealism enters the digial age a kind of post-modern cabinet of curio-sities with narrative twists. Commendably ambitious and experiential".

> Tim Marlow (2014)

Thank you!

—

caroline.claisse@rca.ac.uk @carolineclaisse
http://cargocollective.com/caroclaisse

—

Royal College of Art (London)
ied.rca.ac.uk