

When different types of visitors sign up for digital curation

NODEM, Warsaw, Dec. 2014

Trapholt Museum of Modern Art and Design

In Denmark

Nina Udby Granlie
Collection manager

Trine Nissen
Head of Communications

TRAPHOLT

TRAPHOLT

YOUR EXHIBITION

“Art can bring new insights, personal growth , commitment, zest for life and wellbeing when museum institution facing practices head and invites guests into the process of curating.”

- Guests will be curating their own exhibitions.
- New way of experiencing art & design.
- Empowering the audience.

- 10 years
- of practice from previous projects.
- New personal experience with art & design.

”What has art ever done for me? ”
Exhibition at Trapholt 2010.

TRAPHOLT
DIN UDSTILLING

DESIGN
DIN UDSTILLING

Could YOUR Exhibition just as well take place at a purely digital level?

VÆLG DIT FAVORITVÆRK FRA DIN UDSTILLING:

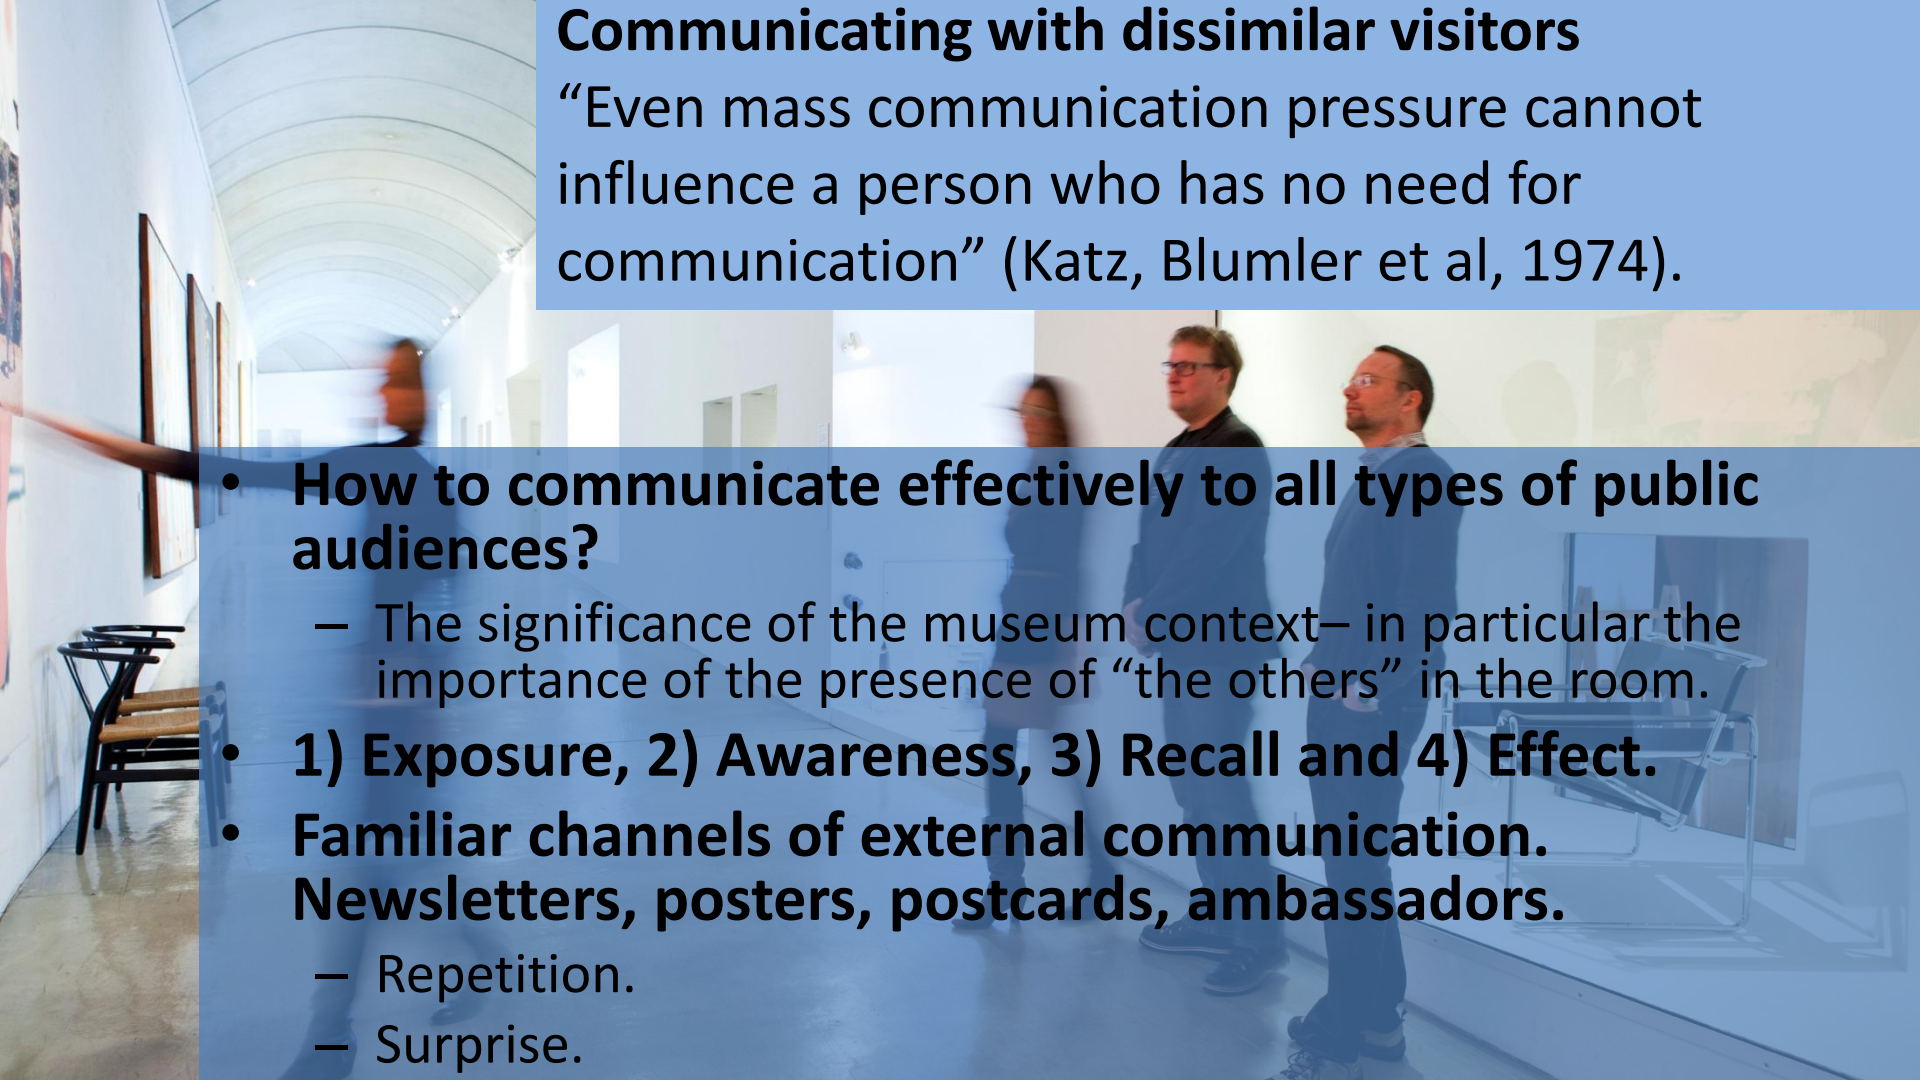

VIDERE

1 START 2 VÆLG VÆRKER 3 DESIGN 4 DEL

Or do authentic objects possess a different potential from their digital cousins?

Do the guests notice the difference?

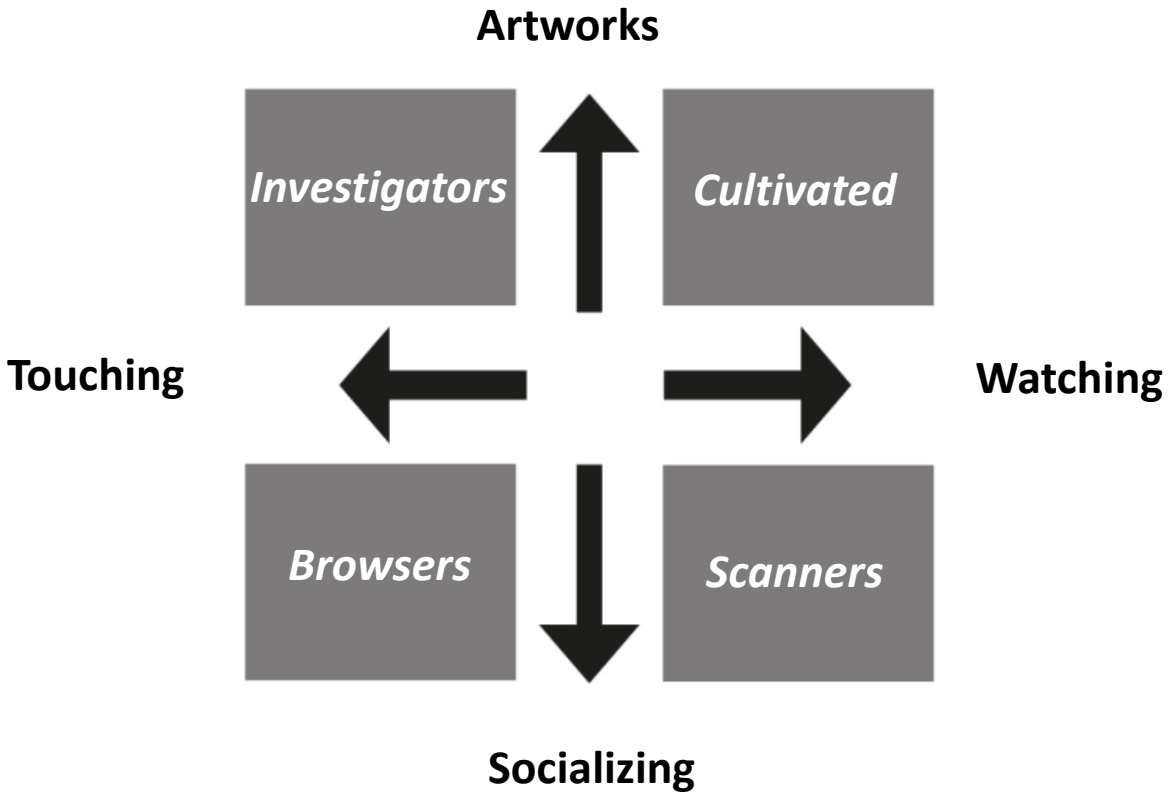

Communicating with dissimilar visitors

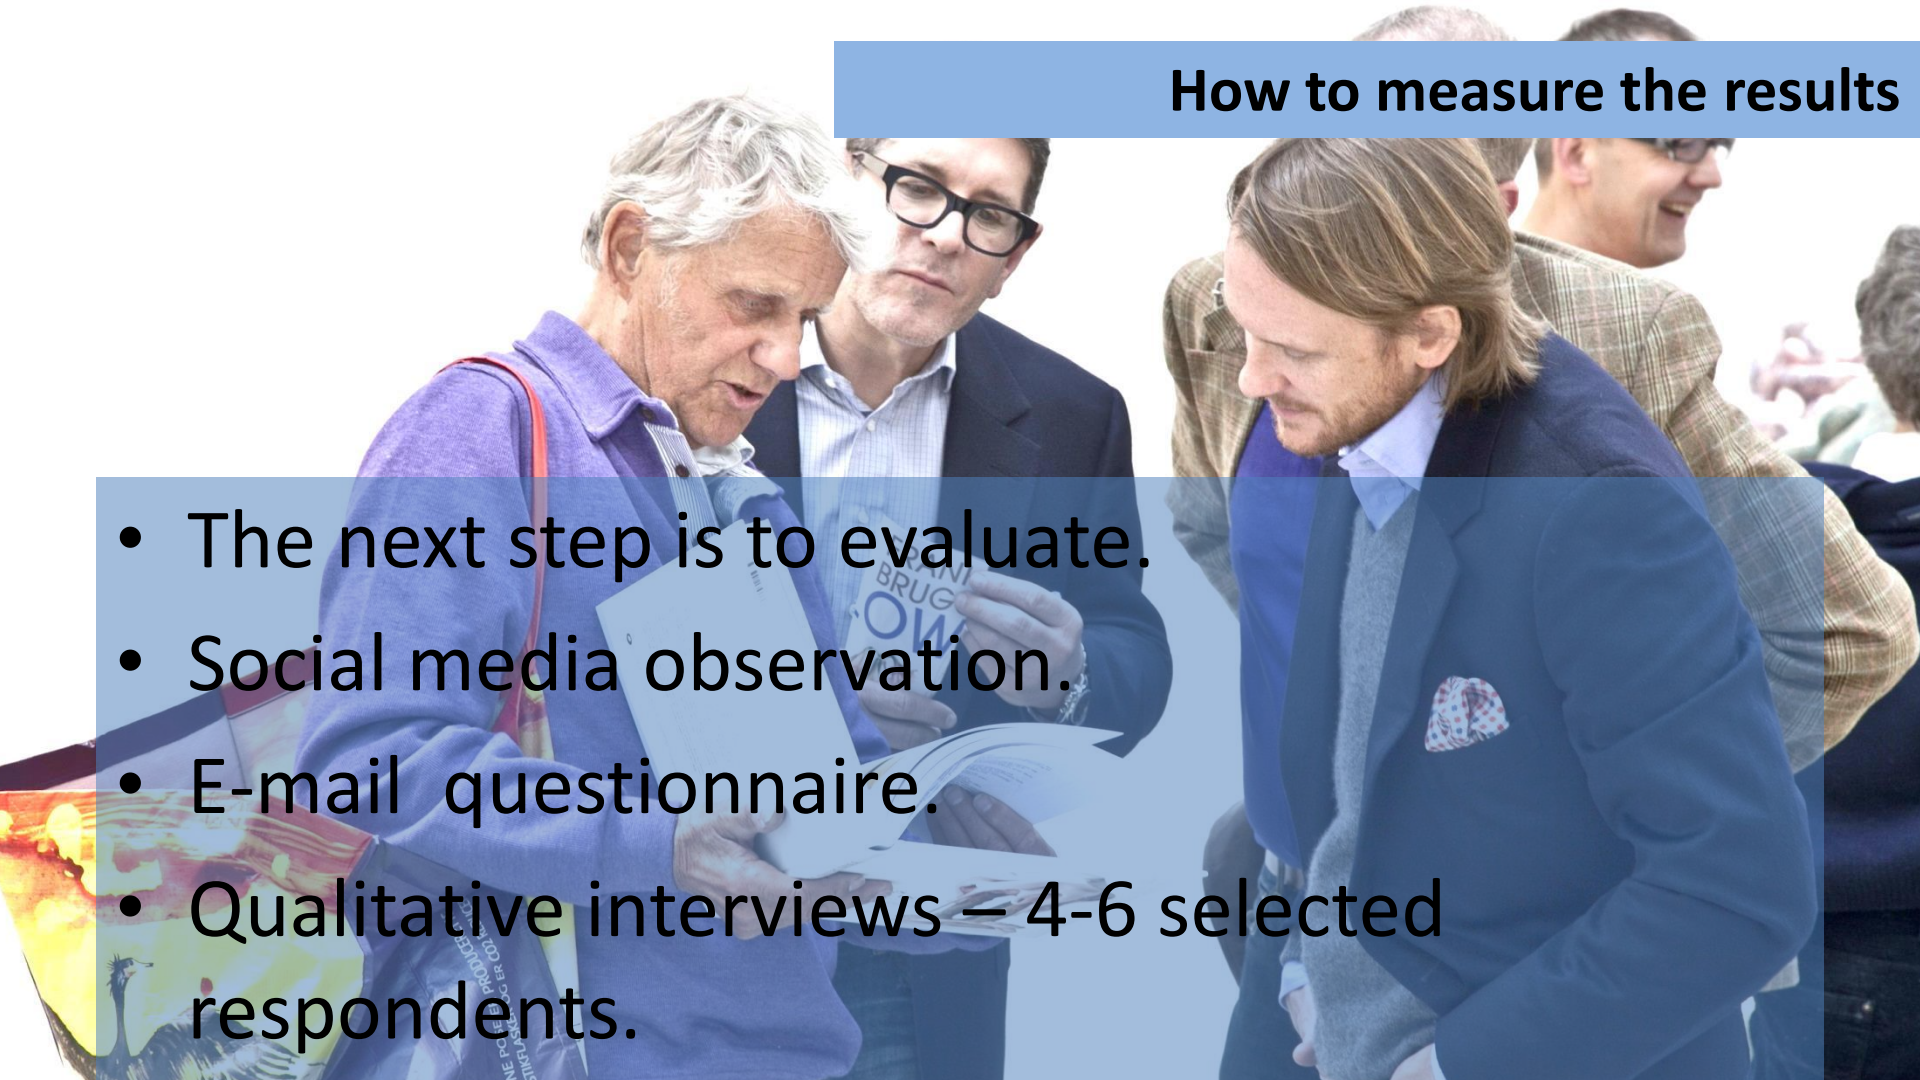

"Even mass communication pressure cannot influence a person who has no need for communication" (Katz, Blumler et al, 1974).

- How to communicate effectively to all types of public audiences?
  - The significance of the museum context– in particular the importance of the presence of "the others" in the room.
- 1) Exposure, 2) Awareness, 3) Recall and 4) Effect.
- Familiar channels of external communication. Newsletters, posters, postcards, ambassadors.
  - Repetition.
  - Surprise.

The Trapholt segmentation model. 2007

How to measure the results

- The next step is to evaluate.
- Social media observation.
- E-mail questionnaire.
- Qualitative interviews – 4-6 selected respondents.

Thank you!

Nina Udby Granlie
Collection Manager
nug@trapholt.dk

Trine Nissen
Head of Communications
trn@trapholt.dk

